

What is CNED?

CNED is an educational non-profit entity whose objective is to close the opportunity gap for historically disadvantaged youth by creating a fundamental shift in the college going and completion rates of African American youth, socioeconomically disadvantaged youth, and first-in-family college attendees. Through fundraising, networking, grants, and awareness building, CNED supports in the realization of their full academic potential.

CNED Record of Support

Since its inception in 2007, CNED has supported over 500 students matriculating through K-12, and transitioning into post-secondary environments. CNED has raised funds to supply these students with the educational tools they need to succeed academically.

What Your Support Provides

Donations are used to provide students with the academic tools they need to thrive in their respective educational environments. Students matriculating through the K-12 system receive a variety of educational materials. College bound students receive financial scholarships and digital tools and peripherals if needed; continuing college students receive financial support which can be applied toward tuition, room and board, books, or incidental expenses.
